art 4... Brings Art to All

It's an art lover's dream, and so much more!

The new art 4... gallery and store in Hollidaysburg is the product of the inspiration and partnership between Jody Christen and Sue Port Simon, who says, "We saw an opportunity to bring art to this area in a way that had not been done before."

A Beautiful Artistic Space

Step into the gallery, and you will immediately be enthralled with the variety of artwork available. The selection pays particular homage to regional artists and craftsmen, but also includes art from around the country and the world.

There's something for every interest and every budget: from original art and special gifts to unique décor and entertaining, eclectic greeting cards.

Even the shelves and display cases are pieces of art in themselves, many fashioned from painted barn beams and antique furniture finds. The amazing space has obviously been a labor of artistic love. The goal is to make art 4... everyone in the Alleghenies.

"We are trying to bring art to people in a non-intimidating way," says Port Simon, who grew up in the Altoona area. "This is the perfect place to find unique, handmade gifts and support local business."

The gallery and store also serves as a classroom for art lovers of all ages. Art 4... offers a variety of workshops to bring art into our everyday lives. Some of the programs include classes on silk screening and journaling.

The gallery will also participate in the new series of events: Third Thursdays in Hollidaysburg, during which downtown merchants stay open late and offer live entertainment, beverages and light food.

The gallery offers a wide variety of services, including personal shopping, design services, gift wrapping, consultation services, art rental, gift certificates and wedding registry.

art 4... is located on the Diamond in downtown Hollidaysburg. For more information on this exciting new artistic endeavor, call (814) 693-2784 or visit their website: www.art4gallery.com.
